ABOUT OUR PROGRAM

The Criminal Justice Program began in 1972 and became the Department of Criminal Justice in 1992. Its graduate program was established in 1984. The department serves more than 600 undergraduate Criminal Justice majors and is home to two centers of excellence: the Juvenile Justice Institute and the Institute for Homeland Security and Workforce Development. In addition to the core criminal justice curriculum, for distance education students the department offers concentration areas in Homeland Security, Law Enforcement and Corrections. These areas of study provide students with specialized study including policy, theory and practice.

The undergraduate distance education program was established in 1999 in collaboration with the N.C. State Highway Patrol. Today, the distance education program offers a seamless transition for community college transfer students with an associate's degree who want to earn the Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice.

OUR MISSION

To prepare students to become leaders, outstanding practitioners, scholars and advocates for social justice in a diverse and global society.

UNDERGRADUATE ADMISSIONS

To earn the Criminal Justice bachelor's degree from NCCU, students must first complete an associate's degree at Vance-Granville Community College or another institution. The Undergraduate Admissions Office will evaluate student transcripts.
