To establish minimum standards for the design, implementation, and operation of Mediation and other Restorative Justice funded programs.

18.2 Policy Statement

Mediation/Conflict Resolution and other Restorative Justice programs shall provide opportunities for youth experiencing conflict, including those who caused harm, to understand the impact of their behavior. Programs shall develop program guidelines governing, at a minimum, program operations, target population, referrals, admissions and terminations processes and staff and volunteer training requirements.

18.3 Requirements

A. Programming Options:

1. Mediation: A private, informal meeting between youth and peers or family members, school administrators and/or other community members to resolve disputes or engage in restorative dialogue facilitated by a neutral third party. During mediation, youth are encouraged to communicate their concerns, listen to the other people's concerns, identify needs and interests, offer solutions, and negotiate an agreement. The process provides youth an opportunity to learn communication skills, problem-solving skills, self-advocacy, and empathy.
2. Truancy Mediation: A private, informal meeting between youth, parent(s), school representatives and others to discuss and address school attendance issues, including the impacts on everyone affected, with the goal of developing a mutually agreeable plan to address the truancy issues. Truancy is often an indicator of other problems the youth might be having at home or school and is often a precursor to future undisciplined and delinquent behavior.
3. Victim-Youth Conferencing: A structured meeting between youth who committed an offense (caused harm) and victim(s) of the offense (those who were harmed). During the conference, youth hear the impact of their behavior on others. By participating in a conference, the youth faces the full human impact of the harm done and hears firsthand the depth of the impact experienced by those most affected and can take responsibility for their actions, and work with the victim and other participants to develop a reparation agreement to repair the harm. The reparation agreement may include restitution, community service, and apology, as well as services to address needs of the youth that may have contributed to the behavior. Family, friends, and community members sometimes attend the conference. The process provides youth an opportunity to learn communication - skills, problem-solving skills, self-advocacy, and empathy, as well as an opportunity to make things right and earn a positive place in the community.

4. Family Group Conferencing: A family-centered meeting to build partnerships within and around families to protect and support youth and other family members and advance their well-being. Agencies and community groups collaborate around critical family issues such as delinquency, runaway, placement, and re-entry, to develop a plan to address these issue(s). The process is designed to create a forum in which families have a meaningful voice; emphasis is given to preparing family group members and professionals, weighting conference participation toward the family, respecting the culture of the family, and ensuring timely approval and implementation of agreed-upon plans. This may include group homes, foster care homes or other non-traditional homes.
 5. Responsive Circles: A structured group meeting led by a trained facilitator to process and respond to a conflict or incident which has resulted in disruption or harm, such as violation of a policy, rule, or law. The circle process brings together those impacted who wish to engage in pro-active relationship-building, conflict resolution, and other activities in which honest communications, relationship development, and community building are core desired outcomes. Rather than merely impose a consequence to the wrongdoer, or engage in assertive discipline, Responsive Circles provide everyone with a turn to speak and result in a deeper understanding of the hurt or incident and what an appropriate path forward should be. Circles reinforce social skills in youth, such as courtesy, mutual respect, listening and speaking skills, and empathy.
- B. Dosage and Duration: Mediation programs must be designed to meet the contact hours and length of stay specified for the SPEP primary service type or the contact hours and length of stay specified for the program service type. Refer to Appendix B Dosage Parameters Crosswalk for JCPC SPEP Service Types.

20 Restorative Programs: Teen Court and Other Restorative Justice Programs

20.1 Purpose

To establish minimum standards for the design, implementation, and operation of Teen Court and other Restorative Justice programs.

20.2 Policy Statement

Teen Court programs shall operate as community resources for the diversion of juveniles pursuant to statute (N.C.G.S. § 7B-1706). Teen Court programs shall develop program guidelines governing, at a minimum, program operations, target population, referrals, admissions and termination processes, and staff and volunteer training requirements.

20.3 Requirements

A. Programming Options

1. Teen Court Model
 - a. Tried by a jury of their peers which shall:
 - i. Assign the juvenile to rehabilitative measure(s) or sanction, which may include: jury duties, life skills, anger management, curfew, and/or restitution/community service; and
 - ii. Document this information on a jury deliberation form.
 - b. Teen Court programs may operate as a resource to school resource officers to handle problems that develop at school but have not been turned over to the juvenile authorities.
2. Sentencing Circles (Peer Accountability Circles): A structured group meeting led by a trained facilitator to provide youth who have committed an offense the opportunity to hear the impact of the offense on others, to accept accountability, and to develop a plan to repair the harm. Those most impacted, including the offender, identify and discuss underlying causes of the negative behavior while building a sense of community and promoting shared values.
3. Responsive Circles: The circle is a process that brings together individuals who wish to engage in pro-active relationship building or conflict resolution, and other activities in which honest communications, relationship development, and community building are core desired outcomes. Circles offer an alternative to contemporary meeting processes that often rely on hierarchy, win-lose positioning, and those most affected/rescuer approaches to relationships and problem solving. Rather than merely impose a consequence to the wrongdoer, or engage in assertive discipline, Responsive Circles provide everyone with a turn to speak, and facilitate a deeper understanding of the hurt or incident, what happened, and greater satisfaction among all people in the circle.

- B. Supervision: Juveniles shall be supervised at all times including those engaged in community service work. An appropriately trained program staff member/volunteer, or an employee/volunteer of a worksite, approved by the teen court program, must be present to provide assignment instructions, document hours completed and demonstrate appropriate role modeling and work ethics.
- C. Community Service Worksites: Eligible worksites include State, Federal, City, County Government, non-profit agencies, including for-profits, and/or other worksites deemed appropriate for the benefit of the juvenile and the general community.
- D. Community Service Worksite Agreement: Agencies in the community providing community service worksite opportunities for teen court programs must sign a Community Service Worksite Agreement (Form JCPC/WA 002) with the teen court program in order to be a community service worksite. Funded programs must have current signed worksite agreements on file upon request by the JCPC or DPS.

Note: This does not apply to worksites when the teen court program provides direct supervision for juveniles.

- E. Community Service Worksite Inspection: Teen Court Programs must conduct an inspection every six (6) months with all community service worksites they have a signed Community Service Worksite Agreement (Form JCPC/WA 002) with, using the Community Service Worksite Inspection Form (Form JCPC/WR 001). Worksite inspections include an assessment of safety concerns within and outside the worksite and any changes involving staff/volunteer and/or work assignments for juveniles since the worksite agreement was signed.
- F. If at any time a worksite does not qualify as a safe working environment, the juvenile(s) assigned to that worksite must be reassigned to another worksite immediately and the worksite under inspection must be removed from the program's list of worksite options. The teen court manager or designee shall determine if the worksite can be approved for future community service assignments. Funded programs must have current inspection forms on file upon request by the JCPC or DPS.

Note: This does not apply to worksites when the teen program is providing direct supervision for juveniles.

- G. Dosage and Duration: Teen Court programs must be designed to meet the length of stay and frequency of contact specified for the program service type. Refer to Appendix B Dosage Parameters Crosswalk for JCPC SPEP Service Types.

Restitution	Community Service	Jury Duties
Restitution shall not exceed $300	Community service up to 20 hours	Shall not exceed 3 jury duties

However, the juvenile court counselor shall not refer a case to a teen court program if the juvenile is alleged to have committed any of the following offenses:

Appendix B: Dosage Parameters Crosswalk for JCPC-SPEP Service Types

This Crosswalk shows the relationship between the types of services which may be funded by a JCPC and the possible corresponding Specialized Program Evaluation Protocol (SPEP) service types.

This Crosswalk also shows the required length of stay and frequency of contact for JCPC funded services and the optimal target weeks and target hours for SPEP services.

SPEP Primary Services are the main focus of a program, on which the majority of service provider staff time or efforts are spent. All youth must receive this service.

SPEP Supplemental Services are other distinct services delivered by the service provider that reinforce or complement the primary service. At a minimum, 50% of the youth in the program must receive this service. Not all SPEP services will have a qualifying supplemental service.

Note: Programs that are implementing an evidence-based program proven to be effective in reducing recidivism, and being implemented in fidelity to the model, may request that DPS allow the dosage and duration parameters of that model to be substituted for the DPS dosage and duration requirements.

Appendix F: Financial & Board Governance Considerations and Requirements

FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS

I. Policies and Procedures

Written policies and procedures codify management's criteria for executing an organization's operations. They document business processes, personnel responsibilities, departmental operations, and promote uniformity in executing and recording transitions. Thorough policies and procedures serve as effective training tools for employees. Organizations must maintain current up-to-date Board approved policies and procedures for its internal operation processes. Policies and procedures approved by the Board must be recorded in meeting minutes.

II. Maintain an Approved Budget

Organization must prepare a detailed annual budget to establish expense guidelines. Record and allocate expenses to expense accounts in the same manner in which they were budgeted. Annual budgets must be approved by the Board.

III. Segregation of Duties

Organizations must implement a system of checks and balances monitored, at least quarterly, by their Board. This system will decrease the likelihood of errors and irregularities. Different staff must be given responsibility for authorizing and recording transactions and for maintaining custody of assets. Board approved policies and procedures must be implemented that will identify appropriate staff member with the responsibility for the payment of invoices, writing checks, and reconciling the bank statements. This will ensure that segregation of duties is identified in policy and in practice. Utilizing Board members as a part of these processes will reduce the level of risk within the organization.

IV. Conflict of Interest

Many organizations have conflict of interest policies in place. These policies call for employees and officers to disclose any interest they have with companies doing business with the organization. Any contracts entered into with the related parties must be reviewed and approved by board members and officers not involved in the transactions. Familial relationships within the organization and with members of the board must be disclosed. When a conflict has been disclosed, Board approved policies must describe Board actions to address the disclosed conflict. Non-profits must upload, in NCALLIES, the Not for Profit DPS Conflict of Interest Policy Statement (Form DPS 13 001) and the agency's conflict of interest policy when applying for DPS funds.

Note: Failure to disclose any conflict of interest transaction that exists or is potential within a private, nonprofit entity may result in the cessation of any further DPS State funds.

V. Controls over Cash Receipts

Organizations must assign someone unrelated to the accounting process to open the mail, restrictedly endorse all incoming checks, and prepare a list of the checks received. This list should be compared to deposits made. A nonprofit may receive numerous cash receipts (such as registration fees at an event or Sunday collections at a church), two or more people must handle and count the cash receipts and certify the total together. The individual opening the mail may make the deposits at the bank.

VI. Controls over Expenditures

Organizations are required to track its source of funds by description, cost center, company code, and activity or by program. Additionally, the following information must be maintained to support purchases or expenditures made:

- Invoices
- Contract agreements
- Time records and Payroll (see following section)
- Lease/rental agreements
- Journal entries (where applicable)
- Invoices/receipts must be maintained to support any reimbursement process utilized by the organization.

VII. Controls over Time Records and Payroll

Hours worked by all paid staff, within the program, must be maintained and shown on implemented timesheets. Organizations with staff working with multiple programs must implement a timesheet that tracks time for each program separately. Each time record must be signed and dated by the staff submitting the time record. Additionally, each time record must also include the approval signature(s) and date(s) of staff approving the time record for payroll. Titles of approving staff must follow the Board approved policies that describes this process. Maintenance of files for each full-time staff, part-time staff, volunteers, interns, and contractor(s) must be in compliance with DPS JCPC Policy 2 Operational Requirements.

VIII. Bank Statements Review and Reconciliation

Reviewing and reconciling bank statements will reveal any unusual cash disbursements or evidence of check fraud. Bank statement and correspondence received, must be reviewed by someone outside of the accounting function. This will allow an extra set of eyes to review these critical documents. This review process also ensures that the organization has cash on hand for daily financial activities, if approved by the Board.

BOARD GOVERNANCE REQUIREMENTS

IX. Policies and Procedures

Organizations must implement Board approved policies and procedures that incorporates all areas within the organization and that identify the roles and responsibilities of the Executive Director, Board Chair, Vice-Chair, Treasurer, and Board Secretary. Bylaws, policies and procedures must be updated, when changes occur, to identify how officers will execute their duties as Board members, clearly reflecting the chain of command within the organization. Policies and procedures must demonstrate the decentralization of authority with respect to the decision-making processes in the organization and the role of the Executive Director. To align with Best Practices and avoid any appearance of a conflict of interest, it's recommended for a Board Chair and/or Board Treasurer to not have responsibilities as the Program Manager and/or Program Fiscal Officer in a DPS program agreement. If approved by a Board, for members of their governing body for the non-profit to have identified staff roles, see Conflict of Interest section of this document.

X. Board Bylaws and Board Composition Requirements

It is highly recommended that the Board implement bylaws to identify new Board composition requirements. The Board must enforce bylaws regarding Board composition to ensure the continuity of overall policies and procedures to effectively manage the organization. It is also highly recommended that Board responsibilities include recruiting new Board members, selecting and appointing the Executive Director, governing through Board approved policies and procedures, and acquiring sufficient resources for operations. The Board should demonstrate the ability to recruit new members whenever vacancies occurs. North Carolina General Statute § 55-8-03.

XI. Annual Budget

Ensure the governing body is responsible for reviewing and approving the annual budget, key financial transactions, and compensation practices, and fiscal and governance policies. Board involvement with the financial process is required.

XII. Board Oversight of Leadership

The Board must hire, oversee, and annually evaluate the performance of the Chief Executive Officer and/or the Executive Director of the organization, and must conduct such an evaluation prior to any change in that officer's compensation, unless there is a multi-year contract in force or the change consists solely of routine adjustments for inflation or cost of living.

XII. Employment Policies and Procedures

It is highly recommended that the Board approve updated employment policies and procedures to include supervisory responsibilities and job descriptions for full-time staff, part-time staff, volunteers, interns, and contractor(s) that outline key functions of each position. It is also highly recommended that the Board develop and implement a standardized criterion for reviewing and verifying a state and national criminal history and, reference checks of prospective full-time staff, part-time staff, volunteers, interns, and contractor(s) and documenting that these have been performed and properly filed. As a further recommendation, Boards often repeat criminal background checks and DMV reviews (when transporting youth) periodically to ensure proper risk management of all full-time staff, part-time staff, volunteers, interns, and contractor(s).

The Board must periodically review organizational and governing documents to ensure the organization complies with the guidelines that have been established. Information concerning duties of the Board and its officers, along with information concerning their roles and responsibilities, can be found on the North Carolina Center for Nonprofits web site at: <https://www.ncnonprofits.org> and <http://www.bbb.org/us/Charity-Standards>.

Note: The establishment of internal control procedures is the best deterrent to internal fraud and embezzlement. Please contact DPS Internal Audit if interested in assistance establishing or reviewing your procedures. Board member involvement in many of the internal functions of the organization is strongly encouraged.

All DPS funded organizations must be in compliance with DPS JCPC Policy and Procedures Minimum Standards located at: <https://www.ncdps.gov/juvenile-justice/community-programs/juvenile-crime-prevention-councils/jcpc-policies-forms>.
